

HARALD BOHR

22 April 1887 — 22 January 1951.

Memorial address given at a meeting of Danish mathematicians on 6 April 1951 at the University of Copenhagen.¹

By BØRGE JESSEN.

The Mathematical Society, the Society of Mathematics Teachers, and the club Parentesen have desired that we should meet here today in memory of Harald Bohr, through whose passing we have lost the one who more than anybody else tied us together.

We should have liked to hold this meeting at the Mathematical Institute, where he had his work; however, space would not permit. But this hall too has ¹ The Danish text has been printed in Matematisk Tidsskrift. Certain omissions and minor changes have been made in the present translation.