

At these prices, why wait for your name to come up?

At only DM 62,- for a one-year subscription — or DM 103,- for 1987 and 1988 — you can put your name at the top of your own distribution list for The Mathematical Intelligencer. The Intelligencer explores a wide range of topics in current research, history, philosophy, and mathematical trivia in lively and informative articles. So why wait until your fellow researchers/teachers/students have finished with the latest issue of the Intelligencer? Enter your own subscription. Today!

The Mathematical Intelligencer is edited by Sheldon Axler and Ian Stewart. For further information and sample copies, write to Springer-Verlag, Dept. ZWS, Heidelberger Platz 3, D-1000 Berlin, West Germany, or to Springer-Verlag New York, Inc., 175 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10010, USA

Springer-Verlag
Berlin Heidelberg New York
London Paris Tokyo

Here's what you could have read in recent issues:

Hüseyin Koçak, David Laidlaw: Computer Graphics and the Geometry of S^1

Harold M. Edwards: An Appreciation of Kronecker

Barry A. Cipra: Archimedes Andrews and the Euclidian Time Bomb

Wolfgang Krull: The Aesthetic Viewpoint in Mathematics

James Eells: The Surfaces of Delaunay

The Mathematical Tourist

Gilbert Strang: Karmarkar's Algorithm and Its Place in Applied Mathematics

P. R. Halmos: Why Is a Congress?

Lenore Blum: Women in Mathematics: An International Perspective, Eight Years Later

Michael Monastyrsky: Excerpts from Riemann, Topology, and Physics

10.152-5/1b

Springer 