

THE NOVEMBER MEETING IN MADISON

The six hundred seventh meeting of the American Mathematical Society was held at the University of Wisconsin on Saturday, November 30. There were 149 registrations including 130 members of the Society.

All the sessions were in Van Vleck Hall, a new structure which sets a standard in excellence not likely to be surpassed in the near future. Particularly enjoyable was the lounge on the top floor with its magnificent new, comfortable furniture, and apparently inexhaustible supply of coffee.

By invitation of the Committee to Select Hour Speakers for Western Sectional Meetings, Professor Louis de Branges of Purdue University addressed the Society on New and old problems for entire functions. Professor R. Creighton Buck presided.

Sessions for the presentation of contributed papers were held at 10:30 A.M. and 3:15 P.M. Presiding officers were Professors J. G. Hocking, Israel H. Herstein and George U. Brauer.
