CHANGE OF EDITORSHIP

Professor Joseph L. Hodges, Jr., University of California (Berkeley), has accepted the position of Editor of the Annals of Mathematical Statistics following his unanimous election by the Council of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics. The term of Editorship is three years, and Professor Hodges will begin his term on July 1, 1961, following the expiration of the present Editor's term.

Submitted manuscripts first received on or after July 1, 1961, will be fully handled by the new Editor. Manuscripts received before that date will continue to be handled by the present Editor up to the point of final editorial decision.