Linguistics and Philosophy is a journal for studies focused on natural language which is of interest to both disciplines mentioned in the title. Although the area thus described is so extensive that a complete listing of relevant topics is precluded, at least the following specifically fall within it:

- traditional areas in the philosophy of language such as meaning and truth, reference, description, entailment, speech acts
- traditional areas of linguistics such as syntax, semantics and pragmatics (when the studies are of sufficient explicitness and generality to be also of philosophical interest)
- systems of logic with strong connections to natural language: modal logic, tense logic, epistemic logic, intentional logic
- philosophical questions raised by linguistics as a science: linguistic methodology, the status of linguistic theories, the nature of linguistic universals
- philosophically interesting problems at the intersection of linguistics and other disciplines: language acquisition, language and perception, language as a social convention

Two volumes will be published yearly. Subscription price per volume of 3 issues (approx. 450 pages) Dfl. 90,- / US $36.00, plus Dfl. 12,50 / US $5.00 for postage and handling.
